Ronald Veitzer tod the City Council Tuesday night.
Veitzer's request in writing for an immediate bid call for new cars brought protests from some aldermen, who noted the purchase is not provided in the current 1979-80 operating budget.
Nearly half an hour of discussion as to where the money would come from ended with approval of a motion to prepare specifications and advertise for bids.
"Once we get some price offers we will know more about where we can go from there," Mayor Paul Schuler told the council.

After Alderman Paul Bowler of the Seventh Ward, chairman of the council's finance committee, challenged the liming of the bid call, challenged the liming of the bid call, challenged the liming of the bid call, is sufficient to justify listing the proposed purchase as an "emergency" which could permit the city to buy the equipment without a budget provision.

"All of our police cars have from 80,000 to 90,000 miles on them, and this is actual driving mileage. Mechanics tell me that the Idling another 30,000 to 40,000 miles on the motors." Veizer said.

Two police cars are out of service awaiting repairs that will cost more than $800.

Mayor Schuler noted that "our maintenance cost is terrific. It is costing us about $2,000 per month to keep those cars going.

keep those cars going.
"But aside from the cost, the situation involves the safety of the men who have to drive those cars. Chief Veizer has told me that he will not put an officer in an unsafe car, and I agree with him."

Bowler noted that by waiting until January when a new entitlement of federal revenue sharing funds is scheduled to be received by the city, the council could amend the budget and have funds available for new cars.

and nave tunes available for new cars.

The objections toward purchase of new police cars at this time resulted to the control of the purchase price; that money be repaid from revenue funds received early in 1980.

It is success, in great part, is based on is local execution. It is success, in great part, is based on it is great part, in the properties of that policy through local implementation is necessary. This state and its municipalities need to spective—one which will take the abundant technical information we have about our energy and show how to apply that knowledge locally. What should we be doing in information we have about our energy and show how to apply that knowledge locally should we be doing in the state and our local communities to effectuate a sound consumer cost and benefits energy conservation policy?

There seems to be a vacuum in the present clear definition as to what good local energy conservation is. We haven't translated the technical information available in energy to the consumer. We have bundled up at home and in Springfield—as thermostats have been reduced to conserve. It is inferesting to note that these programs, which were basically designed to save energy, are more sellahle.

To the Editor:
Thanksgiving should be a happy time. It's a period of meditation.
Spring, summer and autumn have gone. Winter is just around the corner—a perfect time to count our troubles.
So, on this special day, let's not think too much about the world conditions. Time will take care of God borders the brooks

Can leftover seed be saved until next year?

This is an important question for you as a gardener because you don't want to waste your effort planting "dead" seed.

Chris Doll, University of Illinois area adviser, maintains that the key to carrying garden seed over until next year is related to the storage conditions. It is important that seeds be stored in a cool, dry location. The storage life of

Bold decision by pilgrims — to rely primarily on individual enterprise

By HOWARD E. KERSHNER
In 1823 after two years of hunger and starvation, our pilgrim fathers decided to adopt the policy of "every man for himself." This called forth such a great outpouring of energy that hunger and scarcity were soon replaced by an abundance of food.

The first Thankert

were soon replaced by an abundance of food.

The first Thanksgiving in 1623 was in reality a joyous appreciation that the reality a joyous appreciation that the reality and self-reliance had ushered in an era of plenty.

Early in 1623, the pilgrims in Governor Bradford's words, "began to think how they might raise as much corn as they could and obtain a better crop than they had done, that they might not still thus languish in misery.

"At length, affewith the advice of the chiefest among them, gave way that they should set corn, every man for his own particular and— in that regard— trust to themselves."

This decision having been made, the governor assigned to every family a parcel of land, according to the number of persons it contained.

"This had very good success; for it made all hands very industrious, so as much more corn was planted than otherwise would have been by any means — more than the governor or any other could use, and saved him a great deal of trouble, and gave far better content.

"The women now went willingly into the total cook their little ones with them to set and rook their little ones with them to set and disability; whom to have exames and disability; whom to have compelled would have been thought great tyranny and oppression."

Gov. Bradford goes on to explain that his experiment shows the falsity of the belief "that taking away of property and bringing in community into a commonwealth, would make them happy and four sishing, as if they were wiser than God."

The "communist" experiment, says

The "communist" experiment, says Gov. Bradford," was found to breed much confusion and discontent and retard much' employment that would have been to their benefit and comfort.

"For the young men that were most able and fit for labor and service did repine that they should spend their time and strength to work for other men's wives and children without any recompense.

"The strong, or man of parts, had no more in division of victuals and clothes, than he that was weak and not able to do a quarter the others could. This was thought injustice."

quarter the outstanding the injustice."

By the autumn of 1623, six months after the end of the "communist" experiment, individual enterprise had brought individual enter pro-prosperity.

In Gov. Bradford's words, "By this time, harvest was come and, instead of famine, now God gave them plenty, and the face of things was changed, to the rejoicing of the hearts of many.

"For which they blessed God and the effect of their particular planting was well and the state of their particular planting was well and the state of their particular planting was well the state of their particular planting was well the state of their particular planting was well state of their particular planting was well the state of their particular planting was well state of the state of their particular planting was well state of the state hearts of many.

"For which they blessed God and the effect of their particular planting was well seen. For all had, one way and other, pretty well to bring the year about. And some of the abler sort and more industrious had to spare, and sell to others, so as any general want or famine hath not been amonst them since this day."

In the summer of 1823, a ship had arrived from England, bringing 60 new settlers and a small store of food.

Apparently, Gov. Bradford wanted the older colonists to share this food and in turn the newer colonists to be entitled to a turn the newer colonists to be entitled to a turn the newer colonists to be entitled to be offered to the newcomers and the old settlers objected to this arrangement.

The old planters "came to the governor and besought him as it was before agreed that they should set corn for their particular, and accordingly they had taken extraordinary pains thereabout that might freely enjoy the same.

"They would not have a bit of the victuals now come, but wait till harvest for their own, and let the newcomers enjoy what they had brought. Their request was granted them, for it gave both sides good.

The old settlers did not want to shore.

their growing corn for fear that the newcomers might eat too much of it.

newcomers might eat too much of it.
They preferred to get along as best they could and not to share the food that the newcomers had brought, preferring to endure any hardship until their own corn

The newcomers likewise preferred to keep their own rather than share it with the older settlers for fear there would not be enough for all.

When men depend on their own efforts, they feel they can control their destinies. If times are difficult, they can work harder and be more resourceful. If each man both contributes to and consumes from the common pool, each fears that the other will not contribute enough or wil consume too much.

At great hardship to themselves, both of the groups mentioned by Gov. Bradford preferred to be on their own rather than enter into a collectivist system.

We face this Thanksgiving day with mixed emotions. We have much to be thankful for, yet the future is uncertain. We are a blessed Nation, yet we are not highly esteemed in the eyes of the rest of the world. We have given so much, yet have received so little.

There is only one solution believe it or not. Very simply stated it is: Give thanks to God, and pay your yows unto the Most High. All things work together for good to them who love the Lord (Romans 8:28). If we really believe that, then it becomes easy to say.

"Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the Most High: And call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me.

Psalm 50:14, 15

"Thank you Lord, for everything," It also "Thank you Lord, for everything." It also becomes easy to pay our vows or keep our promises to God. Let us not forget those immortal words: "One Nation under God, indivisible ..." If ever there was a time right for a Nation to start pulling together, if ever there was a cause suitable for this purpose, we can thank God for the Nation of Iran who has misunderstand me. God has said: "Call on me in the day of trouble, and I will deliver thee. The battle is God's but the victory is ours! We do not have to fight, but we must pray! We do not all have to go to the same church, but we must unite under God! And we must be indivisible!

In times of great trouble there is reason to believe in great victories. We must pay our vows to God and renew our pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States of America.

I believe in the Word of God. When Heaven and earth passes away His word will remain.

Let us take this good instruction from 2 Chronicles 7:14, "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Our Father, we give thee thanks . . . today

SALEM'S LOT

While visiting his boyhood home in New England, a novelist (David Soul) becomes caught up in modern-day vampirism terrorizing the town. (Conclusion)

SATURDAY

David Soul stars as a writer who returns home to plow through the mystery that surrounds an old house, and James Mason stars as the sinister antique dealer, in the conclusion of "Salem's Lot," Saturday, Nov. 24, on CBS.

Four new lads recall Liverpool's Fab Four

The smoke in the room was nightclub thick, and the screaming audience was shockingly young, young the way people were young when the '60s were new, when rock in' roll was king and wars and protests and anger seemed far away.

n' roll was king and wars and protests and anger seemed far a man and a man and a man a ma duty that years fell away like the calendar pages in a movie montage.

"I should think any director of my generation would give his page in a movie montage.

"I should think any director of my generation would give his page in the pag

Richard Marquand was ready, too. After all, he was truckin' when the Fab Four were the new kids in town, and no one would ever get old, and the world believed in magic. And bringing those days back was, well, fun.

SUNDAY

Cheryl Ladd and Robert Urich star in a stropg family drama about a young couple whose immature relation-ship leads to the mistreatment of their daughter, on "When She Was Bad," Sunday, Nov. 25, on ABC.

Richard Crenna ready for holiday special

"Our major objective in this drama is to present the Pil-grims not as objects of religious curiosity, but as human beings," said Richard Crenna, on location for the shooting of "Mayflower: The Pilgrims' Adventure."

In the special, Crenna por-trays William Brewster, leader of the band of colonists whose voyage from Plymouth. England, to the New World er of the band of cotomists whose voyage from Plymouth with the program of the recounted on the eve of Thanksgiving, Wednesday, Nov. 21, on CBS.

"The Pligrins but people driven by the need for religious and social freedom," the actor continued. They were actually far more liberal than the Partians who followed be active to the program of the program of the program of the pligrims and their leader. "It gave me some insight into Brewster and their leader." It gave me some insight into Brewster but the actor conceded that some dramate license was taken with the story. Brewstaken with the story. # Offer jobs tax credit

Illinois employers can cut e amount of federal taxes the amount of federal taxes they pay by hiring certain workers, according to Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall.

Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall
A telephone call to the nearest local office of the Illinois Job Service is all it takes to learn about jobs tax credits and get referrals of eligible jo-seckers, he said.
There are two tax credits.
—The Targeted Jobs Tax Credit (TATC) by taxpaying employers between Jan. 1, 1979, and Dec. 31, 1980, to certified employees hired from seven categories of jobseekers after Sept. 26, 1978.

The credit is 50 percent of first-year wages up to $5,000 and 25 percent of second-year eligible employee.

New insulation law to provide heavy penalties

Builders of new homes are facing new federal regulations requiring the labeling and advertising of home insulation used in their residential buildings-and a $10,000 penalty for failure to do so.

$10,000 penalty for failure to do so.

The new law will become effective Dec.31, an extension of one month from the originally scheduled effective date of Nov.30.
